Clark & Trevithick law firm selects Omega Legal

PHOENIX—April 3rd, 2008—After an extensive search and evaluation process, the law firm of Clark & Trevithick has selected Omega Legal as the firm's new Financial and Practice Management system, replacing Elite. Omega Legal will be used to run the firm's front and back office operations, including time entry, billing, accounting, collections, reporting and file folder management.

"We wanted a complete system with one central database for ease of access to all firm data including accounting, client information, conflict search and marketing," explained Kim Holme, Office Manager for Clark & Trevithick. "We also knew we didn't want a system that required a lot of maintenance to keep it running smoothly. Omega provided all of that."

Founded in 1977, Clark & Trevithick (www.clarktrev.com) has expertise in all aspects of business law, civil litigation and bankruptcy-related matters. The business practice includes the formation and general representation of corporations, partnerships and limited liability companies. The firm's litigation practice encompasses unfair competition, contract disputes, employment relations and more. The firm's bankruptcy practice focuses on creditors' rights, debt workouts and restructurings.

Omega Legal Systems, Inc. (www.OmegaLegal.com) in Phoenix, Arizona has been providing legal and professional services firms nationwide with fully integrated Financial and Practice Management Systems for more than 30 years. More than 12,000 legal professionals throughout the U.S. rely on Omega Legal every day to run their business operations efficiently and profitably.
